"Annexation" Growing.

Our latest advices from New Brunswick are most emphatically in confirmation of the opinion we have before expressed, that the annexation sentiment is rapidly growing, and before many months will be overwhelming. Recent events go to show that the vindictive and violent outbursts that greeted the move of Mr. Cudlip in the New Brunswick Legislature were for the most part mere gasconade to cover up more real weakness in the loyal sentiment than the politicians find it for their interest to expose. They labored at all times and strenuously to send broadcast into the United States manufactured accounts of public sentiment, and to suppress among their own people the natural sentiment which animates a great portion of the community. With this course in view, newspapers like the Toronto Globe are incessantly writing down such men as Mr. Cudlip, and making such statements for the benefit of the New York and Western press, as that "Not a man of any social standing, or political sagacity, but laughs at the annexation movement) to scorn."

The facts are far different, and now that these sentiments have been so widely circulated in this country, it is about time the true sentiments were heard. Many of the best men and the ablest newspapers are out spoken in favor of annexation, and base their political action upon all occasions upon that view. We speak more especially of New Brunswick and Nova Scotia, as coming more directly within our observation; but the feeling is by no means confined to those provinces. A late issue of the St. John Globe refers to the question in Canada thus:

"The London (Ont.) Free Press is said to favor annexation, and a brother journalist tells him to pick up his traps and walk. All very fine, but the kind of talk is, to use a vulgarism, played out. There are people enough leaving the country every day, and we would not spare another man no matter what his principles are so long as he is honest and industrious. If the people discover that Annexation is for their benefit they will accept it, no matter how much it may displease those who are sentimentally opposed to it. The fact is, we believe, that in Canada the annexation feeling is much stronger than many persons dare suppose, or why so much misrepresentation upon the subject."

In relation to the sentiment in the east, the Globe says: "It is pretty well known here that a very large number of persons of 'social standing' and political sagacity are outspoken annexationists. In Nova Scotia the annexation party is very large and powerful, but there is a feeling among them that the consent of the Imperial Government should be first obtained to any measure for annexation."

We have reliable information directly from St. John, N. B., that in that vicinity many of the most influential men favor annexation, and are outspoken in its favor or are quiet for greater effect at the proper moment. There is a wide spread dissatisfaction with the course of affairs in the eastern provinces especially. The customs arrangements between the Provinces are oppressive, and burdensome, trade is oppressed, the people have little encouragement to private enterprise, and their young men are threatening to emigrate to the United States unless affairs are reformed. But the undercurrent, instead of looking to redress under the colonial government, is strongly and effectively using these facts as arguments in favor of annexation. The best judges there think that a majority are already in favor of that course of remedy for all their ills. Those who have been reading the one-sided accounts which we generally receive from there, are much astonished on visiting them, at the general discussion of the subject amongst the better class of people, and at the rapidity with which the annexation sentiment is growing. They say to us, "We do not want the United States to lighten our condition by reciprocity; we are naturally with you, and our complaints can never be permanently cured under our present government." Annexation they feel to be their only hope for the future, and the leaders cannot long conceal the truth from the people.

A Wholesome Move.

Our readers will recollect that the Legislature last winter passed an act of incorporation for the Houlton Woolen Manufacturing Company, with a capital, we believe, of about fifty thousand. We learn from The Pioneer, that a meeting of the corporators was held in Houlton last Saturday, at which it was voted to accept the act of incorporation, and a committee was appointed by the chairman to open books, solicit subscriptions to stock, examine the several water powers in the vicinity, with a view to purchasing a site for the proposed factory, and to report at a meeting to be held at the same place, on Monday afternoon, May 3d.

Houlton has many fine water powers able to supply any demand for machinery that can be anticipated for many years to come, several of them are equal to almost any in this State. From the Report of the Selectmen of Houlton to the Superintendent of the Hydrographic Survey we extract:

"No accurate measurement of the power has ever been made, but it is sufficient for the largest manufactories; water abundant all the year. The power is improved in two grist mills, four saw mills, two carding mills, two cabinet shops, one tannery, and a machine shop and foundry. Numerous lakes and large streams, the lakes can be converted into large reservoirs at small expense."

"Freshets never destructive; sites for building very excellent; proprietors would sell in a thorough survey. Rock suitable for building close at hand; three-fourths of the town cleared."

"The improvement of the power has had a marked effect upon the wealth and population of the town, and if adequately carried out would double both in two years. There is a most excellent opportunity for factories, especially woolen factories. We raise the best of wool, in great quantities, which now goes to Boston and then comes back to us in cloth. Other manufactories are greatly needed, and we can offer the highest inducements. The soil in this region is a deep, rich loam underlaid by clay."

Markets, Boston and Bangor, the former by the St. Andrews R. R. and steamboat.—Our great trouble, in years past, has been means of access to the rest of the world. The railroad above mentioned has begun to give relief. The opportunities and necessities for manufacturing here are very unusual."

This is a move in the right direction, and we trust it will be accomplished without unnecessary delay. Aroostook County raises excellent wool, and with sufficient encouragement can increase its production to an almost unlimited extent. But so long as two freights have to be paid in order to have the material manufactured, where manufacturing must necessarily be more expensive than it need be at home, the growing is limited, though even now respectable. When we can have manufactories all over this State we can make our productions pay profits to which our people are strangers, and we can draw business from other sections. Manufactured merchandise in many ways, they increase the usefulness of capital, they raise the wages of labor, they give the producer a new market, they enhance the value of real estate, they invite to general enterprise, and they build up the country.

We hail this pioneer movement for developing the idle resources of Aroostook as a good omen for the future of that section. Eastern Maine is indigent in manufactories with the greatest facilities idly waiting to be improved. We hope this enterprise will be crowned with success, and that other towns may emulate its good example.

Just the Portland Advertiser is ready to go in its enthusiastic indorsement of Gov. Hoffman of New York. The editor cannot surely be acquainted with the way New York Democrats play their cards. Hoffman has been too long connected with city tricks not to know the depth of playing legerdemain at Albany. They have wheedled New York into their confidence by just such games as Hoffman is now playing. It was only a year or two since that as Mayor, Hoffman managed to veto all the objectionable swindles that were passed by the City Council, with the certainty that they would be passed over his veto. The development went to show that the schemes were concocted by the Ring over which Hoffman himself presided, yet this is the Governor of the State. Now as Governor he is vetoing all the opposition measures to the people as incorruptible and made great professions, and subsequently presented to the people as incorruptible and economical, while the whole Tammany party remain as rotten as you please. Now he is to have all the political schemes by which he

Rumors of War

NEW YORK, April 22.

The Commercial's Washington dispatch says—

Cable news of the suspension of negotiations between France and Belgium of the most serious character, excites intense interest in diplomatic circles here. It is generally believed that the French Emperor has resolved on a precipitating war as the only means of diverting the alarming discontent of his people in France. As Belgium is allied by friendship, the war, once commenced, would soon become general.

Revolution in Cuba.

HAVANA, April 22.

The following news is official—

The surrender of Villamil of Casadora Junco, with six hundred of their followers, is premature. At the last accounts the agreement between the insurgents and the Spanish General was not complete.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 21.

A special meeting of the Chamber of Commerce has been called, for the purpose of considering the propriety of presenting a memorial to the President against the removal of the coinage of the branch mint of this city.

Yokohama advices to March 13th, have been received. Seditious placards had been posted during the night on the Government bulletin boards, warning parties that they would be executed if those they abandoned their tyrannical acts. The authorities in view of the threatened outbreak, had placed troops to fill the Custom House and bonded warehouses, and soldiers patrolling the streets night and day. Another rebellion against the Shogun appeared imminent.

Stabbing Affray.

NEW HAVEN, April 22.

This morning Ransom Tomlinson Proprietor of a saloon called the River House, in West Haven, was fatally stabbed in Chatham by a man named John Grandison, the act severing his jugular vein and causing his death.
